

A dilemma?

16 de julio de 2015

Here is a dilemma. How many courses of action make a dilemma? Three, four, two hundred?

The word dilemma comes from Greek, meaning two propositions (proposiciones). So, if you have to decide between two things, you have a dilemma. If there are more than two courses of action, then you have a bigger problem or even a quandary (apuro).

Dilemmas are better - only two things to decide between! So the Greeks have a dilemma - in or out of the European Union.
